The president criticised his predecessor's "disgraceful" treatment of Mr Ohr, who previously worked on the Russia inquiry. The former deputy has been accused of working against the Trump team. Mr Trump has also picked his former campaign chief Roger Stone to be a federal prosecutor. Mr Stone, a vocal Trump supporter, was charged in January with obstruction of justice, witness tampering and making false statements to Congress.

Those charged have until Friday to appeal. The president's team has drawn criticism over its past interactions with Mr Ohr, who was removed from his post after it emerged he met with FBI officials in October 2016. But White House officials have said that the government "appears to have been misled" and that removing Mr Ohr was a "tough act" after Mr Trump took office. The administration has also denied that Mr Ohr was fired. In a statement, the president said he had "done nothing wrong" and 3e33713323
