The plan will continue to include a $300 billion tax break for corporations and the wealthiest Americans and $80 billion for Trump's proposed wall. | Kevin Dietsch/Getty Images White House Trump's plan to eliminate Obamacare tax cuts nets out to a $1.2 trillion cut President Donald Trump's plan to eliminate Obamacare's individual mandate and other taxes in his tax overhaul would net out to a $1.2 trillion tax cut, according to an analysis by the nonpartisan Joint Committee on Taxation. In total, the plan will continue to include a $300 billion tax break for corporations and the wealthiest Americans and $80 billion for Trump's proposed wall. Congressional budget analysts said the JCT assessment, which is used by both Republicans and Democrats and has drawn derision from some conservatives, should be taken with a grain of salt. They said the analysis doesn't account for the economic impact of the tax cuts, which could be substantial. It will also require legislation from Congress to move. The analysis also does not include an estimated $1.4 trillion in deficit reduction over the coming decade from repealing and replacing the Affordable Care Act’s individual mandate, the JCT said. “We do not see this estimate as a credible one for several reasons,” said Kevin Hassett, director of economic policy studies at the American Enterprise Institute. “The JCT is making the point that a significant portion of the revenue generated by ACA repeal is generated as a result of the law’s repeal, which is a good reminder that it's not just a tax cut we are dealing with here.” Sen. Recent reports have indicated that drainage of subretinal fluid through a first-passage retinotomy may promote subsequent recurrence of retinal detachment, suggesting that the reattachment procedure and postoperative course should be performed in the same operating theater. This study was designed to evaluate the effectiveness of scleral buckling combined with intraoperative intraocular gas tamponade and postoperative non-diathermy subretinal fluid drainage without scleral buckling through a second-passage retinotomy. A retrospective study of 14 consecutive eyes with rhegmatogenous retinal detachment that underwent scleral buckling with intraoperative intraocular gas tamponade and postoperative non-diathermy subretinal fluid drainage without scleral buckling through a second-passage retinotomy. Final follow-up ranged from 6 to 18 months. The mean postoperative follow-up period was 11.3 months. Final anatomic success was achieved in 14 eyes (100%). Two eyes (14%) developed retinal detachment in the early postoperative period and underwent re-operation. In one case, re-attachment was achieved after vitrectomy. There was no recurrence in any of the eyes. Postoperative vitreous hemorrhage developed in 10 (71%) eyes. None of the eyes developed endophthalmitis. Scleral buckling
